12 of Faculty Granted Leaves; 18 Are Coming

Many Changes Made in Summer Teaching Staff—Four New Professors Have Ph. D's.

Twelve members of the present faculty have been granted leaves of absence for the summer term and eighteen new faculty members have been elected for summer teaching by the Board of Regents of the College which was in session at the College Tuesday afternoon of this week.

Most of the teachers with leaves will attend school somewhere during the summer working on advanced degrees. Two will travel in Europe and take work there.

The following is a list of those who will be gone for the summer:

Miss Bowman of the English department will complete work for her Master's degree at the University of Kansas.

Miss Margaret Franken of the College High School will work on her Master's degree at Columbia University, New York City.

Miss Helwig of the mathematics department will work on her Master's at the University of Chicago.

Miss James of the commerce department will do graduate work at Columbia University.

Mr. Whiffen of the industrial arts department will do graduate work at the Iowa College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts at Ames, Iowa.

Mr. Wilson of the chemistry department will do advanced study at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Garrett of the biology department will spend the summer doing graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Miss Dvorak of the violin department of the Conservatory of Music will spend the summer with her parents in Algonquin, Illinois.

Mr. Cook of the American history department will travel and study at the University of Colorado.

Miss DeLuce of the Art department will travel and study at the International Art Association in Prague and in the University of Paris and in various European Art galleries and museums.

Mr. Cooper will teach a two-weeks short course in Lincoln at the University of Nebraska and spend the remainder of the summer doing graduate work at Harvard.

Miss Dow will study at the University of Paris and travel in France.

New Summer Faculty
The new summer term instructors represent a most worthy addition to the College faculty. Four of them have Doctor's degrees, some have practically completed work for their Ph. D's and most of the others have their Master's. The following is the list of the new teachers for the summer:

Dr. L. E. Woodman, head of the physics department at the Rolla School of Mines, Rolla, Mo., will teach physics here during the summer term. Dr. Woodman holds his B. S. degree from Dartmouth, has taken his Master's at Columbia University, New York City.

Beece L. Bryant will teach biology. He took his B. S. with major in agriculture at the University of Kentucky, his Master of Science at Cornell, and next month will complete work for his Ph. D. at Cornell.

Willis H. Walker of Iowa City, Iowa, will teach Social Science. He holds his

Miriam Geyer Heads Social Science Club

Miriam Geyer succeeds Jean Freeland as president of the Social Science Club during the summer quarter according to the results of the election held Thursday. Ruth Cagley was elected vice-president and there was no election of a new secretary or treasurer.

Two new members, Vandetta Pierce and Kathleen Jones, were added to the membership list.

The present acting officers of the Pi Gamma Mu will hold their offices throughout the summer term.

Clyde C. Rowland had been president and Fred Smith vice-president of Pi Gamma Mu since the organization of the local chapter in the summer quarter of 1927.

Tomorrow Makes Today Important Says Dr. Winship

Veteran Boston Educator Stresses Influence Of Yesterday On Today In Address To College High Graduates.

"Today is the tomorrow of yesterday and the yesterday of tomorrow. Yesterday is the day which made today. Wake up and think of yesterday only because of its influence on today and through today on tomorrow."

In these aptly-put terms Dr. A. E. Winship, veteran educator and editor of the Journal of Education at Boston, Mass. spoke to the student body at Assembly last week, urging study of past events only as they may affect today, and tomorrow, through today. His subject was, "Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow," and he stressed the point that there is no today unless we think of it in connection with today. During his address Dr. Winship said in part:

"I want you young people to realize that less than 300 years ago the first public highway was built in Massachusetts—eight miles long—and it was said that was as far west as civilization would ever go. I don't think we shall ever find a place beyond which civilization will not penetrate. Civilization has gone forth faster during the past six or seven years than in any hundred years before."

"The world is progressing so rapidly that methods in education must be changed and improved. You are educating people to teach boys and girls. A teacher can't be successful if she tries to teach five years from now anything just because she taught it five years ago."

"You must remember that it was only yesterday that made today. Some school men think day before yesterday made day after tomorrow."

17 Girls Pass in Live-Saving Tests

Seventeen girls from the advanced class have completed the Red Cross Life Saving Tests. The girls are: Marguerite Curran, Kathleen Jones, Florence Seat, Bernice Crockett, Dorothy Cox, Permenia Davis, Edna Morton, Marjorie Teuscher, Evelyn Evans, Elita Jo Wright, Zora Saylor, Lillian Oliver, Myrene Castillo, Nellie Marian Smith, Esther Carr, Edith Moore, and Louise Griffen.

Seniors Evoke High Praise In "Twelfth Night"

Large Crowd Gives Enthusiastic Applause For Seniors' Interpretation of Shakespearean Comedy—Mary Goodpasture and Sam Urban Stars.

A good many years ago—about half a century to be more exact—a certain gentleman by the name of Shakespeare, who lived at Stratford on the river Avon, wrote a play.

Since that time the play has been reproduced so many times that the statistician count would approximate the scientist's distance of the sun to the earth in millimeters. And the quality of these productions would run the entire scale of adjectives from very good to very bad.

Saturday night this famous old comedy, "Twelfth Night," was given by the members of the Senior class as their class play. And if personal opinion and conjecture may be permitted, that old master dramatist of all times, had he been in the audience, would undoubtedly have made the pronouncement at the fall of the final curtain, "Well done thou good and faithful servants."

At least everyone in the large audience which practically filled the College auditorium voiced that opinion in enthusiastic applause as the play progressed and their commendations and praise reached a high peak at the conclusion of the play. It would be a broad statement and one hard to prove to state that Saturday night's interpretation of this delightful comedy was the best class play ever given but conservative critics would agree that none within their memory had been better.

Every member of the cast performed like Shakespearean veterans behind the footlights. But if any members are to be singled out for their stellar work the praise would go to Mary Goodpasture as Viola, and Sam Urban as Sir Toby. And close to those two stars would come Marvin Westfall as Sir Andrew, Rebecca Briggs as Maria, Mary Fields as Olivia, and Margaret Quinn as the clown. But the success of the play was due to every member being well suited for his role and the ease with which each portrayed his part. Leland Medsker made a most excellent Carrol in the role of Malvolio; Gerald Carroll was a stately duke, and William Gaugh very ably carried the role of Sebastian.

The credit for staging a successful play goes to Miss Dow and Miss Criswell whose interpretation was so well portrayed by the cast. The new scenery and lighting effects, directed by Miss DeLuce added immeasurably to the success of the play and without the splendid work of the orchestra under Mr. Hickernell in carrying through the music theme, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," the audience would have missed much of the pleasurable satisfaction it found in the evening's entertainment.

It was a play well worth repeating and certainly worth fifty cents of anyone's money. It would make as good entertainment for the summer term students as many of the plays of Shakespearean players who have visited the campus in the past.

An entire set of scenery was set up on the stage of the auditorium at the College for the class play. The work was done by the Kansas City Scenic Studio Company. A gray cyclorama which gives a pictorial view extending circularly so that the spectator is surrounded as if by things of nature, gave the proper setting for the Shakespearean play.

Many Students Use Masonic Loan Fund

More than seventy college students in Northwest Missouri have taken advantage of the Knights Templar educational loan fund, according to a recent bulletin. Last year there was a total of 228 students granted loans compared with 132 for the year before.

In 1927 loans were made to 171 men and to 57 women. One hundred and twenty-eight came from Masonic homes and one hundred from non-Masonic homes. Up to the present time 430 students have been served by this fund.

Several students here have availed themselves of this loan fund. The local representative for this fund is Mr. Phillips of the education department.

Darnell Buys Agency.
A. M. Darnell, a graduate of S. T. C. has just purchased the Central Education Bureau, a teachers agency of St. Louis, according to an announcement this week, and the home office of the Bureau has been moved to St. Joseph. Mr. Darnell was formerly principal of the high school at Topeka, Kansas.

The Newman Club held its annual May morning breakfast last Monday morning. The meal was served in the dining room of the club house.

Girls Entertain Their Mothers Here Wednesday

Two Hundred and Thirty-Eight Mothers Entertained At Luncheon and Taken To Annual May Fete.

Reversing the sentiment expressed in a recent popular song the mothers of Northwest Missouri were "tied to the apron strings" of their daughters in S. T. C. last Wednesday for the annual Mother's Day festivities on the campus.

Two hundred and thirty-eight mothers officially registered and were taken to lunch by their daughters, but a good many more mothers were on the campus who did not register. Two hundred and two of the mothers were served lunch at Residence Hall, twenty-two at the Linville Hotel and fourteen at the Yehle Tea Room. At the Residence Hall luncheon Miss Dvorak played two violin numbers and Helen White, chairman of the luncheon committee, arranged the mothers into groups according to counties.

Songs were sung in chorus led by Charlene McHugh, Vera Smith, and Helen Fouts. Pauline Andrews played at the piano during the luncheon. At the close the entire group joined in singing, "Alma Mater."

The tables were attractively decorated with snowballs and iris, arranged by Leola Miller and Lois Dakan of the decorations committee.

Before the luncheon the girls living at the Hall took groups of mothers through the building and in the evening after the May Fete they entertained their mothers with a picnic supper in the College Park.

The day was one of the most successful and pleasant ever held at the College. (Continued on Page Two)

Commerce Classes Visit St. Joseph

The commerce class took a field trip Tuesday to St. Joseph and visited the following places: First National Bank, Cone factory, Telephone company, furniture company, and Goetz Bottling works.

The class left Maryville about 7:20 a. m. eating lunch in St. Joseph and returning about 7:00 p. m.

Mr. Eck, Mr. Cradit, and Miss James were in charge of the field trip. The Chamber of Commerce of St. Joseph gave its assistance to the class in visiting these various places.

Baccalaureate Sermon Packed With Wisdom

Dr. Silas Evans, Ripon College President, Gives Forceful, Thought-Provoking Address To Seniors.—Chorus Sings Two Numbers.

NUGGETS
"One of the best ways to trust in God is to trust in the faculties God has given us."

"I have never found any man who broke the Ten Commandments—but I have found the Ten Commandments break many men."

"Laws are given to be obeyed—not debated."

"God did not make the world—He IS making it."

"He who folds his hands and says the world owes him a living will find that the world has never acknowledged that obligation."

"Love is about the only thing that sees straight—prejudice, hatred, and malice are blind."

"The greatest bond, the finest link ever known is Mother's apron strings."

"Bring up the parents in the way they should go and the children will have a chance."

"It isn't where you are but where you are going."

"No man ever made a mistake with God."

Ninety members of the Senior Class and an audience that filled the College auditorium Sunday morning for the 1928 baccalaureate services, heard Dr. Silas W. Evans, president of Ripon College, Ripon, Wisconsin, give a forceful fact-filled sermon which will stimulate their serious thought for a good many days to come.

"Taking as his subject, 'An Old Story in a Modern Setting,' Dr. Evans drove home point after point in an address heavily freighted with sound wisdom about life. Taking as his text Abraham's journey and Lot's choice, he drew deadly parallels in application to our present day living. 'This universe was made for truth,' he declared, 'and you can't get anything out of it by fabrication,' and proceeded to point out some of the great truths contained in the text from which he was speaking. 'There is not a single man or woman of you who doesn't have a desire to turn back to some great ideal you've been neglecting,' he told the graduating class.

He told the graduates that Abraham was a pioneer, that he was a young man when he got his vision and reminded them that, 'you as a class are pioneers and are going out into a great unknown.'

The College chorus sang the procession accompanied by the audience and the 'Sanctus' by Gounod and 'Whoso Dwelleth Under the Defence of the Most High' by Martin.

The following is a complete program: Processional—'O God, beneath Thy Guiding Hand'.....Hanson Invocation Scripture Reading—Rev. W. N. Dewar Prayer—Rev. R. A. ## Lon Wilson Submits To Operation on Knee

Lon Wilson, a former Bearcat of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, is at Shreveport, La. where he underwent an operation on his knee last week.

The cartilage in Lon's knee was torn loose while playing football with the Bearcats. He is resting well after the operation, and the plaster-Paris cast will be removed from his leg Saturday. "Shuck" Graham, a student in the College, will leave for Shreveport within the next week or two, to drive Wilson back to Maryville where Lon will enter school for the Summer Session.

No Mail-- Only a Laundry Bag-- But Packed With Motherly Love

Impatiently a student watches the postman coming down the block. "Oh, why can't he hurry?" pants the student. At last he arrives and there is no letter. Disappointment shows distinctly on the face of the student.

A little later the postman returns with a package, the student's heart leaps for a beat or two and then again disappointment and he can be heard to say in a petulant voice, "Only a laundry bag."

Yet if that student would only stop a moment and think he would find more in that laundry bag than a score of letters might contain. It would not be in black and white, no, but readable to the eye that cares to read it.

When the student opens the laundry bag and finds in it only some clean clothes, he is falling to read. Open laundry bag.

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will respect and obey the College laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

INVENTORY TIME

"What have I received in return for my year in college?" is the question asked by practically every student as the term is drawing to a close. Every one answers it differently, some count their credits or enumerate the courses they have taken.

The school will probably receive due credit for having imparted some knowledge to even the poorest student, but probably some of the most valuable knowledge we have received has not been in the classroom or obtained from books. Of all the institutions of which we may be a part, none other imparts so much training as acquaintance with human nature.

The various virtues that have found their origin in the home are more fully developed in the school. Perhaps you have a quick temper but you also have as a roommate a very good friend whose respect you fear might be lost by allowing your temper its freedom. What do you do? Learn to control it and strive to understand the viewpoint of another.

Among the forces that shape the lives of young men and young women in our educational institutions none is more powerful than the indescribable thing which we call school spirit. School spirit reverts to an unselfish attitude of the student. Many things operate to draw these student body together and the life of a corporate group is something different from the lives of the individuals who compose it.

Then there is home; although you may have been away from home that very absence may have given you a new sense of value of dear old "Mother and Dad." Most of those who are to spend the summer at home are looking forward to the joining of the family rather than a few months of leisure. Go, then, students, to your respective homes and show families that besides learning art, science, and education you have also learned how to live with and for others.

Memorial Day

On Memorial Day, we honor and remember those who have lived and died.

Believe It or Not

A few tests for the credulity of S. T. C. students:

A fellow called "Joe" came down the library steps without stumbling.

A freshman entered the library without first reading every notice on the bulletin board.

One fellow said he enjoyed every period of physical education.

Two girls were in the library one whole hour and didn't talk.

One girl in College won't eat candy.

Some teachers give "O's."

The new faces in the library each night are not there, because their owners loafed during the quarter, oh no, the teacher just put too many things off for the last week.

A girl said she enjoyed working on her term paper. (Bet she'd cry for joy if sentenced to be shot.)

Some poets write poetry.

The man is head of the family.

Two boys spent one hour in Social Hall.

A certain boy never won a bet in his life, taking this as a sign he bet he would "flunk" a required course.

Irene O'Brien Doing Constructive Rural Work In Daviess County

Miss Irene O'Brien, Daviess County Superintendent of schools and alumnae of S. T. C., is making a reputation for herself by the constructive educational work she is doing in the rural schools of that county. Partly in recognition for this work the following article by Aileen Case Heimer appeared in a recent issue of the Missouri Ruralist, a widely-known farm paper:

One of the most popular county superintendents in Missouri is Miss Irene O'Brien of Daviess county. Her constructive work has commanded the attention of educational leaders throughout the state.

Miss O'Brien is an Irish schoolma'am with a fighting spirit. She doesn't sit around her large airy office in the courthouse at Gallatin and wait until teachers write and tell her what they want or ought to have. Her friendly, smiling face is familiar to rural school teachers. She finds out for herself what is needed and goes after it.

Third of Schools Approved

There are 71 rural schools in Daviess county. During Miss O'Brien's term at county superintendent, 22.5 per cent of these schools have been approved as first class schools. This plan of approval was originated by State Superintendent Lee.

Rural School Day, which so far as I can learn was originated by Miss O'Brien, is held in the spring. During the forenoon, there is a program consisting of numbers furnished by rural school children. Contests are conducted in one-act plays, readings, songs other than solos, patriotic drills. The afternoon is given to commencement address, the awarding of prizes and presenting diplomas. "The day is so full there is no time to eat," said Miss O'Brien.

"It seems to be a revelation to the people of the county who attend these programs," stated Miss O'Brien, "I have had persons come to me many times and say: 'Why I never knew children could do so well.' Can you imagine that? So it's just up to us to show 'em, and we do!'"

Starts "Rural School Day"

Miss O'Brien was so enthused over the possibilities of a Rural School Day that she offered the prizes herself and the first year just to convince herself and others that it would "go over."

The second year, the late ex-governor or Dockery of Gallatin, was so pleased with the results that he offered $50 in prizes. The W. C. T. U. sponsored a poster contest and the American Red Cross a Health Poster contest. Other prizes were offered by interested citizens for various poster displays.

On account of inadequate county funds, the business men of Gallatin very generously co-operated with Miss O'Brien by giving prizes on the third year Rural School Day.

The first school to be approved as a first class school in Daviess county was the Wooderson School. This was also one of the first to be approved in Missouri. Other approved schools are Goodbar, Barnett, Island No. 10, Prairie Hall, Splawn Ridge, Cross Roads, Boyd, Red, Griffith, Prairie Center, Arnold, Madison, Everly, Scotland, Civil Bend (grade), Lone Star (second grade).

Among some of the concrete results obtained in rural schools in Daviess thru the hearty co-operation of Miss O'Brien are these: There has been an increase of attendance over a period of three years of 22 per cent, attendance last year being 95 per cent, 34 per cent of the schools now have sanitary toilets, 51 per cent have playground equipment, 20 per cent have changed the lighting facilities to better advantage and about 35 per cent have standard sets of reference and only 5 teachers in the county are without college training.

"I think we have an outstanding group of teachers," remarked Miss O'Brien with pride, "and our teachers have been enrolled 100 per cent in the State Teachers' Association for four years."

Miss O'Brien believes that the one-room school can be just as important a factor in the development of community life as a larger school if it is properly equipped and properly taught.

"I love to teach," laughed Miss O'Brien, "and even now when I visit a school, I frequently teach a while."

Miss O'Brien has secured scholarships (for rural graduates) from ten high schools each year, thus saving ten boys and girls a year's tuition each year. This is possible because of the co-operation of the boards of education of the towns and consolidated districts.

Go Adventuring, Dr. C. A. Phillips Tells Hi Grads

been six thousand or six billion years, the fact that man adventured through it remains the same."

Dr. Phillips told the story of the old Harvard professor who sorrowfully remarked to the graduating class, "I'm sorry for you young fellows, all the worth while things have been done and there's nothing left for you to do." This he said was absurd for "the great fields of science today offer a super opportunity for young people to adventure."

Dr. Phillips told of several great scientists and their work in eradicating diseases like yellow fever, tuberculosis and small pox. He told of the many discoveries and inventions as insulin, radium treatment, X-ray and many others and the great good which these had accomplished. He made this statement, "I would rather be a Pasteur than all the Napoleons in the world."

Dr. Phillips told the class that, "The time for you to begin to take part in this great adventure of life has arrived. There are many fields other than science in which to compete."

"One of these fields," continued Dr. Phillips, "is that of wholesome recreation. This is a job for College trained men and women, parents and teachers, not work for commercial interests." A new moral order as set forth by Christ years ago is permeating the world. The belief that mankind is your neighbor, not the man next door, he used this philosophy and the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, self-sacrifice, service and truthfulness, else we will be involved in a scientific barbarism. A sign of this was shown in the World War, but the great wreck impending will make the World War seem insignificant," is the belief of Dr. Phillips.

Dr. Phillips told the story of the three working, one was merely cutting stone, this is the drudgery of life; the second was getting four dollars a day, this was the material things of life; the third was building a cathedral in which men might worship and God may dwell, this is the adventure of life.

Dr. Phillips closed by asking the class members this question, "Which workman do you choose to be?"

Mo. College Papers Perfect Organization

Mr. Selecman Attends Meeting At Columbia—Editor of Central Collegian Named President.

The Missouri College Newspaper Association, an organization composed of the college newspapers of Missouri was formed at Columbia, Mo., last week under the auspices of the Missouri chapter of the Sigma Delta Chi, honorary professional journalism fraternity. This meeting was held during Journalism Week at the University.

Wagner, of St. Louis University, was elected vice-president; Kathleen Henshaw, Missouri Valley College, Marshall, recording secretary; and Lee Hills of the University of Missouri, corresponding secretary. Robert McCain, also of the University of Missouri, was named publicity manager and James Kirkpatrick, Central Missouri State Teachers College, Warrensburg, treasurer.

Eighteen delegates representing seven Missouri institutions were present at the organization session. The following schools are charter members of the new association: Culver-Stockton, Canton; Northwest Missouri State Teachers' College, Maryville; University of Missouri; Central Missouri State Teachers' College, Warrensburg; St. Louis University; Missouri Valley College, Marshall; and Central College.

Texas Girls Need $350 for Clothing Yearly, Says Survey

Surely no one can complain of Texas Woman's College being underdressed—a recent survey made in the dormitories and among the town girls in order to estimate the cost of the average girl's wardrobe for a year, shows that the average girl wears at least ten pairs of hose, six pairs of shoes, eight hats, two coats, 15 dresses, 20 suits of "undies," and innumerable accessories, which amounts to about $350.

Consider such trifles as wrist watches, jewelry, gloves, bags, handkerchiefs, perfumes, cosmetics, etc., the staggering total is enough to frighten parents of prospective students.

Both extremes were found, the lowest priced outlay of clothes being $60 and the highest $1,200. It is interesting to note that both were freshmen, the next total being a junior. The extremes are listed below:

Article	Prs.	Article	Prs.
Shoes	19	Shoes	4
Hats	9	Hats	2
Coats	3	Coats	0
Dresses	39	Dresses	4
Hose	37	Hose	9
Gloves	11	Gloves	0
Undies	29	Undies	5
Incidentals	$50	Incidentals	$3

An attempt was made to ascertain the predominating color in the average girl's wardrobe, but they apparently wear every color.

Faculties from Other S.T.C.'s Here Two Days

Fifteen Representatives From Other Colleges Meet Here To Discuss Mutual Educational Problems.

PROGRAM
For Visiting Faculty Members
Friday:

7 p.m.—Dinner Residence Hall.
8 p.m.—Vernon Barrett Recital.
Saturday:
9 a.m.—General organization meeting, Social Hall.
Noon—Visitors will be guests of various faculty members for lunch. The afternoon will be spent in general departmental visits.
6 p.m.—Dinner, Maryville Country Club.

Fifteen members of the faculties of the Kirksville, Warrensburg, and Cape Girardeau Teachers Colleges and most of the faculty members of the Maryville College met in a two-hour session at the College Saturday morning to discuss problems common to the teacher-training institutions of the State.

At the conclusion of the program a committee composed of Mr. Phillips, Maryville; Warren Jones, Kirksville; Miss Gertrude Hoesy, Warrensburg; and Mrs. Christine Randolph, Cape Girardeau, was appointed to plan for a similar meeting next year and to report upon the feasibility of perfecting a permanent organization of the faculty members of the five teachers colleges of Missouri.

The business meeting was spent in discussing educational problems confronting the state colleges of Missouri. Such questions as standardization of curriculum, quality of high school teaching, evaluating secondary work and supervision of teachers were taken up. Talks were made by most of the visiting instructors and by many of the local faculty. Mr. Phillips presided at the meeting.

The visitors were guests of the various members of the Maryville faculty Saturday at luncheon. The afternoon was spent in visiting the different departments of the College and "talking shop" generally. Saturday night the guests were entertained with a dinner at the Maryville Country Club, after which they were taken to the College to see the Senior play, "Twelfth Night."

All the visiting teachers arrived Friday afternoon and were guests last night at a dinner at Residence Hall. After dinner they attended the graduate voice recital in the Social Hall at the College.

The following visiting faculty members were here for the conference:
Kirksville: Miss Bernice Beggs, co-operative librarian; Warren Jones, English; Fred S. Russell, agriculture; Paul O. Selby, Commerce; Jacob Wilhelm Heyd, German; John Hart, physics; Miss Minnie Kennedy, home economics; and Miss Myrna Lauer, English.

Warrensburg: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bayles of the training high school; Miss Gertrude Hoesy, education; Miss Maud Beamer, Latin; and Miss Ella Groenewold, home economics.

Cape Girardeau: Miss Esther Knehan, rural education; and Mrs. Christine Randolph, secretary to the president.

Fifteen to twenty members of the faculties of the other Teachers Colleges in Missouri will be in Maryville Friday and Saturday of this week as guests of the College faculty here. The purpose of the meeting is to develop closer contact among the instructors of the five teachers colleges in Missouri and it is probable that a permanent organization will be perfected Saturday.

Twelve members of the faculty at Kirksville have accepted the invitation to come to Maryville this week. They are: Louis A. Eubank, dean; Miss Bernice Beggs, co-operative library; Mrs. Marie Turner Harvey, rural education; Warren Jones, English; W. S. Pemberton, mathematics; Fred S. Russell, agriculture; Paul O. Selby, commerce; Jacob Heyd, German; John Hart, physics; Miss Minnie Kennedy, home economics; Miss Myrna Lauer, English; and Cliff Cornwell, speech.

Warrensburg will send a delegation but it is not known how many. It is probable that Cape Girardeau and Springfield will be unable to send representatives to this meeting, although they are in hearty accord with the plan. Friday evening the visitors will be guests of our faculty at a dinner at Residence Hall and then they will be invited to attend the Vernon Barrett voice recital.

Saturday morning a general organization meeting will be held at 9 o'clock in the Social Hall. At noon the visitors will be guests of the various faculty members for lunch and the afternoon will be spent in departmental visits and "shop-talk." At 6 o'clock a dinner at the Maryville Country Club will conclude the program for the visitors.

"Do your shoes hurt?"
"No, but my feet do."

What Winship Might Have Said!

Dr. Winship said "Yesterday is the day that made Today; Today is the Yesterday of Tomorrow and the Tomorrow of Yesterday; Tomorrow is the day after Today." But this is all wrong according to one student. His theory is "Yesterday is the day that made the 'night before.' Today is the day after the 'night before,' and Tomorrow is when some students always study."

College Plants 1000 Strawberry Plants

Mr. Withington had 1000 strawberry plants set out into the little field just east of the College last Saturday. He expects to have raspberry, current, and blackberry bushes, and grape vines put out when the time comes to do it. The strawberry plants which were set out look strong and vigorous now, so if growing conditions are favorable this summer the vines should make a good growth, and be ready to produce a medium sized crop next year.

It will be a large task for someone to take care of the plants, but if the berries do well it should be a profitable undertaking for berries of high quality bring a good price.

The garden truck which was put out vegetable gardening class is doing well, and it won't be very long before the Residence Hall will want some of the truck for the table. All the truck produced by the College garden is used by the Residence Hall, so the students staying there have fresh vegetables all the time during the summer.

Limit To College Enrollment Urged

Should admission to State Teachers Colleges be restricted to candidates in preparation for teaching?

Legally the purpose and aim of state teachers colleges is the training of teachers. It is therefore a vocational school. Should it also train the candidates for other vocations, thus dividing resources and energies already too inadequate? In answer this question is pertinent: Is any other vocation so distinctly and essentially of a public and non-private character that it may properly claim from the state especial and individual consideration in the matter of training? Unquestionably there is none. Essential as are other vocations, its members are not public servants in any such measure as are teachers. Yet opportunities for training are probably more adequate for other vocations than they are for teaching.

But there are those seeking simply a liberal and cultural education. For these ubiquitous liberal arts colleges already exist. Moreover, junior colleges are rapidly bringing such training to every community. Surely a teachers college can justify its existence without organizing a liberal arts department.

As long mass the great mass of teachers is inadequately trained and institutions for such training are inadequately provided and shipped, such institutions may properly claim especial consideration from the state and exclude candidates not preparing to teach.

College Farm Has 2nd Jersey Calf

A Jersey heifer calf was dropped Tuesday afternoon by one of the highest producing cows in the College Jersey Herd. The cow was put into the barn to have her calf so she could be carefully watched.

Mr. Kinnaird, the superintendent of the College Farm, was greatly pleased to find that the calf was a heifer for he keeps all the heifers in order to bring new blood into his herd and so that he may wean out the cows which are undesirable. The bull calves are sold as soon as possible for it is not wise to keep them around until they are ready to go on the market.

The College Herd is giving a large flow of milk now for the cows are getting all the green grass they want to eat in addition to their dry feed. All the milk produced by this herd is used by the Residence Hall, so the students staying there have the rich Jersey cream like that they have had at home.

Milking this herd is a large task, but Mr. Kinnaird has a hired man to do it who is well fitted for the task. The cows are put into the barn and fed about 3 o'clock, and then "Andy" begins with the milk bucket. It takes him about two hours to do all the milking.

Dr. Kirk Writes on Religious Convictions of Great Scientists

The following letter was written by Dr. John R. Kirk, president emeritus of Kirksville after reading the Northwest Missourian story on a talk recently given by Mr. Garrett of the Biology department:

"I am pleased that your Biology teacher sees no conflict between science and religion. Science is something in the world that is demonstrated by controlled observations. Religion is the universal motivation to behave ourselves and play the game on the square with all mankind.

"But your professor 'never knew a true scientist that was not a Christian.' By that he probably refers to personal acquaintances. Many scientists in the world are Jews and Saracens. Some Egyptians and Hindus have been scientists.

"And there were the Jews and Moors in Southern Spain six hundred years ago. Their enlightenment was not before that time equalled in all the world. They added chemistry and other sciences. Their civilization equaled ours in many respects: Almost political equality for women, great libraries, pure water, universal toleration, religious liberty, purity of character. Then down upon them came our Christian monarchs of Europe to smother that civilization and drive it out.

"From Southern Spain many Jews settled in Italy to create great commerce. The Moors were driven across the straits and ever since have been desert sheiks. Some living scientists are descendants of that Jewish-Moorish civilization. Spinoza was among our great world philosophers. With him his tribe traversed the English Channel in rickety ships to settle in the low countries and make them centers of banking, commerce and industry outstanding in the world.

"Darwin, of course, was a church member with no idea of any conflict between his discoveries and orthodox Christianity. Darwin's pastor tells us that in difficulties of the local church Darwin was his main reliance. How wretchedly our generation slanders and misrepresents dear old Darwin. He was the most tender hearted mortal that I read about.

"Of the ideas now commonly ascribed to Darwin by the ill-informed crowds he, Darwin, knew practically nothing. And then among his devoted followers, Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, greatest of American naturalists, shows us that primitive man from the open country retired to the caves of the earth when the ice sheets came sliding down to freeze him. Then man began to cultivate his art instincts, and we find thousands of engravings, paintings, and castles left in the caves of the earth when the caves of the earth? (fo do? when the cave dweller was approaching civilization.

"And Dr. Osborn takes up the Darwin idea to show that man did live in trees because fossil man in great numbers reaching back into the dim pre-historic is found in strata almost paralleling the fossils of quadrupeds. But man always had the opposable thumb and the tree dweller never had it. Acrobats have little use for thumbs.

"Dr. Millikan, perhaps the greatest American physicist is hardly a Christian in the Missouri sense. He doesn't profess to be. Mysticism, miracles and metaphysics are not among his problems or conceptions. The great English scientists, Thomas Huxley, John Tyndall, Herbert Spencer, and others, were, seemingly, not in our sense Christians. They gave Christianity no trouble. They were not seuffers or skeptics. True enough, Huxley discovered the term agnostic, a good name for those reticent, non-combative, harmless persons who quietly seek demonstrations in which they may believe.

"In the new Social Science there are to my way of thinking many Jews of sterling character, good thinkers. And then, my reading leads me to a slight knowledge of scientists among Mohammedans and Hindus, many of whom have been students in English and American universities.

"The great quadrennial assembly of bishops and preachers in Kansas City gives us many intimations of approaching harmony of the two great forces, religion and science. They say: 'We must not foster the preacher with bonds of arrogant mechanistic philosophy or with despotic traditionalism.'

"We got further idea of the churchmen's grip on cosmopolitan forces in the following utterance of theirs: 'We believe that every real advance of knowledge will be to the glory of God. If we are afraid to go into the laboratory with the scientist, or to look into the geological field with true and reverent investigators, then we are doubting God.'

"Our pilgrim fathers came to America to enjoy religious liberty. But some American states by statute seek to destroy religious liberty. A great president of a great church college intimated recently that the church did not need statutory provision for its protection.

Then a large group of splendid clergy-men spoke to the same effect.

"A representative scientist says: 'The purpose of science is to develop without prejudice or pre-conception of any kind of knowledge of the facts, the laws, and the processes of nature. The even more important task of religion is to develop the conscience, the ideals and the aspirations of mankind.' The hope of the scientist is to free the world from disease, ignorance, intolerance, despotic control, superstition and hatred.

"I think it is very fine of you to publish these expressions of the observations of your science professor. I think the spirit of the article was wholesome and sane.

Very truly yours,

John R. Kirk."

The faculty members, from the other teacher colleges in the state, were guests of the College for the "Twelfth Night." A block of twenty-five seats were reserved for them.

The Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, as its name implies, is primarily a teacher-training institution and was so established by the legislature of the State of Missouri. In view of this fact emphasis is placed upon those courses designed to train teachers for their work. Especially is this true during the summer term when most of the student body are teachers seeking additional training.

The College has planned for the forthcoming summer session with two points in mind: first, to help teachers solve their classroom and teaching problems, and second, to enable them to secure credits which will meet the teaching requirements for the different certificates approved grades and degrees. Credit in courses offered this summer, if properly selected, will apply on the elementary certificate, life certificate, or on the degrees of B. S. in education or the Bachelor of Arts. High school courses in the College High School will be available to those who have not completed that work.

Generally speaking the summer term will be the same as others during the year. The same curriculum will be maintained. General courses in all departments will be offered. However, most courses will be presented from the viewpoint of the teacher in the light of possible teaching problems which may arise during the next year.

During the past year every teacher has encountered problems in the schoolroom which have not been completely solved. Similar problems will arise during the coming year and the solution of these problems is the task of the teacher. Likewise it is the task of this College to assist teachers in every way to successfully solve these problems. The administration and faculty in planning for the coming summer term, have attempted to organize the courses so they will give the greatest amount of information and training that will be classroom use.

Registration for the summer term will be Tuesday, June 5. Wednesday classwork will begin. Freshmen new teachers have been added to the faculty staff for the summer. Everyone at these instructors was selected because of his high training and wide experience in his particular field. The summer schedule of courses has been made up to satisfy the teaching requirement needs for the greatest number of students.

Various entertainments are being planned for the summer quarter. The College faculty, administration, student body and people of the city will strive to make your summer stay filled with inspiration, profit and pleasure.

If you have not received a copy of the summer bulletin, one will be mailed you for the asking.
